

PGR ENHANCEMENTS

DMIRS is continuing to improve its interactions with customers by rolling out online systems to ensure a faster and more seamless customer experience for conducting business with the department. These systems will provide 24/7 access and improved processing timelines, as well as reporting benefits and reduced red tape.

Well Management Plan and Field Management Plan modules are now available in PGR, to support the Resource Management Regulations. The information, once submitted, will link to a related title and previously approved Application to Drill.

These two modules will ensure that users can consistently monitor well and field activities. This is the first time that technical data and activities over the lifetime of a well will be captured and stored in one central location.

Online lodgement of applications through PGR

ONLINE SUBMISSION

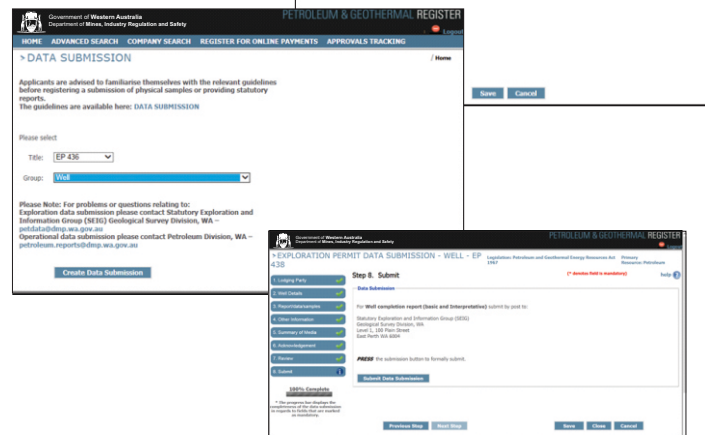

PGR provides industry with the ability to submit petroleum data required under the petroleum acts and regulations.

Online submission of petroleum compliance data allows online lodgement and tracking of the following:

- Well activity and completion reports and data
- Surveys reports and data
- Titles reports and general study reports

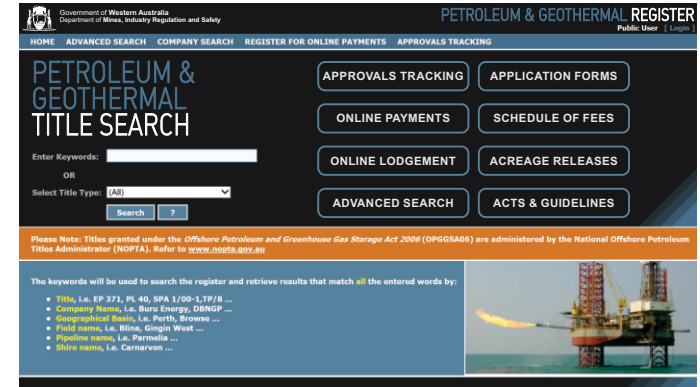

The system also specifies the format and the media required for data submitted, provides templates and allows uploading of files up to 150 Mb.

Online submission of petroleum compliance data is now available through PGR.

Users must be registered against a company in order to access the online submission system. The data received are strictly confidential; only data lodged by the company you are registered for will be displayed.

PETROLEUM & GEOTHERMAL REGISTER

The Petroleum and Geothermal Register (PGR) is the Department of Mines, Industry Regulation and Safety's online system that provides information relating to petroleum and geothermal titles.

ACCESSING PGR

PGR can be accessed through the Department of Mines, Industry Regulation and Safety (DMIRS) website at:

www.dmirs.wa.gov.au

To access PGR

The screenshot shows the DMIRS website navigation menu. The 'Petroleum' link is circled in red. Below the menu, there is a 'VIEW MORE' button also circled in red.

click VIEW MORE

or type www.dmp.wa.gov.au/PGR in your Internet browser DMIRS provides a Single Sign-On (SSO) facility for all Online Systems making it easier and quicker by logging on once. This means that only one username and password is needed to access Online Systems where registration is required.

Customers requiring access to PGR for public information about petroleum and geothermal titles do not need to register.

Customers transitioning from paper to digital transactions can register for a free online account for online lodgement of applications and online payment.

An email notification will be sent once access to online lodgement or online payments has been approved.

ONLINE SYSTEMS REGISTRATION

The screenshot shows the 'Online Systems Registration' form. It includes sections for 'Please provide information about yourself' (with fields for name, address, country, etc.), 'Please select the application(s) you require access to' (with checkboxes for various systems like Dangerous Goods Licences, EARS Online, etc.), and a 'Register' button at the bottom.

SEARCHING THE DATABASE

On the PGR Homepage choose 'Advanced Search' to enable searches of titles and applications using a combination of data types.

The screenshot shows the 'Advanced Search' page. It features search criteria for 'Live Titles', 'Dead Titles', and 'Authorities'. There are fields for 'Registered Holder', 'Pipeline Name', 'Status', and 'Title Type'. A 'Search' button is at the bottom.
