Approvals Performance Report Quarter 1: 2012

An efficient and timely approvals process for mining and petroleum projects is essential for guaranteeing the sustainability of the resources sector and the State's future prosperity. In recognising that the current system requires significant improvement, the Government has required key agencies to reconsider their current approaches.

The need for a more transparent system in which agencies measure and report on timelines for key approvals processes is considered to be an important aspect of reforming the current system.
